BARL ROBSETS AND WAR.

A Leason on Prevention.

On August 28 Earl Roberts unveiled a. memorial at Lianelly to the Lianelly men who fell in Bouth Africa. At the luncheon which followed Earl Roberts said that the desire to find means of averting war was asentiment which he deeply sympathised with. Only those who knew what war was could understand what war meant. He looked upon an efficient aftry as the best means of averting conflict, and that was why he had been speaking so openly in regard to the necessity of keeping the Army in the highest state of efficiency. To become highly efficient was the best possible way of preventing our being ancaged in war. In his recent speeches in the House of Lords, and at the Mansion House, his point had been the necessity of having the armed forces of the Crown in a thoroughly efficient state. In urging that, he teled that the regular Army was as officient as "it possibly could be, with the training it received, and the gallant officers who commanded it, and the admirable men were worthy of the highest praise, but there was a great deal more than this which was necessary. What he wanted to see was not merely an efficient regular Army and auxi-Mary forces, but the whole manhood of the nation as a great potential reserve of force.

If we had that we might be certain, so far as a human being could be certain, that we should be very seldom, if ever, engaged in war. We would be so powerful that no pation would think of going to war with us, if they knew that we had not only an efficient regular Army and auxiliary forces, but a large potential reserve of every man in the country. That was what he wanted to see, and that was what the nation should have.

FOR A WOMAN'S HONOUR.

A Romance of New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. That a s ciety man pose i as a burgiar to save the honour of a married woman, going so far as to don the stripes of a convict in Sing Sing Prison, is the gist of a story that will be told to Governor Higgins when he returns from abroad with the view to obtain a pardon for the man. The woman's husband is now dead, and she has retained alawyer to get out of prison the man who, when caught by her husband in the house alone with her, took upon himself the burden of disgrace and saved her from a suspicion of wrong-doing. The womanis not only a member of an old aristocratic New York family, but was the wife of a prominent business man. She is about 25 years old and is a member of one of the are leading churches. She has been prominently identified with charitable and church work, and in summer stays at Narragansett Pier. She has a comfortable income and proposes to spend it all, if necessary, to secure the release of the man who became a convict to shield her. She came to this city to begin proceedings, and returned to Narragansett 1819 after consulting her lawyer, and instructing him to get the matter under way. Carl Fisher Habon, the philanthropic millionaire lawyer, who helps unfortunates in trouble in the Court of General Sessions, is the lawyer the woman has retained in the case. The man in the case was sent to Sing Sing for three years, and has served one of his term. He was prominent socially, and went to trial under an assumed

He was not known to the husband and by simulating a rough manner and keeping it up during the trial he reached Sing Sing without detection.

Mr Fisher Haben says the prisoner was a young college student who disappeared from one of the colleges when he was I will not say whether it was Harvard, Yale, or Princetown, said the lawyer,

No one has ever known what became COTTAM & Co. of him, as he was tried and sentenced under an assumed name. The woman in the case has also paid the penalty for her indiscretion, as a servant, who knew of the affair has collected $85,000 in blackmail from her. She is a member of one of the best families of New York and her late husband owned several factories in New Jersey

T. Albaud. B. Tea Yoliann, Panis. AS IT STRIKES THE SERMON REPORTER.

Some sermons are unreportable, some are difficult to report; others disgust the stenographer by their exaggeration. Such is the verdict of an anonymous 'Sermen Reporter' in The Homiletic Review (New York) who says

'There are some sermons which are unreportable, or which, if they must be te. ported, have to be remodelled. Sermons of this kind are delivered by some of the most famous preachers of the day, and it is an unsolved mystery to the reporter how it happens that the mon who deliver such incoherent sermons manage to build up their reputations. Novertheless there is, often a personal charm about a preacher which compensates for his lack of rhetoric.'

He cites a cortain preacher of this class, Dr G. F. Pentecost, of Yonkers, N. Y. who 'stands up straight in his pulpit, in a manner that suggests a campaign orator.' He actually hypnotizes the congregation, and on the reporter makes the impression, to quote the writer's words :

That he is a man of wide experience, a sort of ecclesisatical commercial travellor, who handles a side line in theology. One gathers a general impression of what he has to say, but it seems as though it were only. by chance that he says it definitely. Many of his sentences cannot be printed without alteration. Subjects and predicates, singulars and plurals, pasts, presents, and futures will all be mixed up in the same period. The only consolation is that he does sooner or later come to a full stop."

Other sermons are pleasant to listen to, but have to be remodelled-practically rewritten before they can be printed. | The words flow on and soothe by their liquid tones. Of such a preacher, Dr. Cortlandt Myers, of the Brooklyn Baptist Temple, we are told :

'He holds the hearer under a spell. His words are as rippling waters, charming the heart if not causinoing the understanding. He has a pleasant voice and a clear enunciation, two elements which materially facilitate a reporter's work. He speaks and acts in the pulpit with the highest degree of emotion, and at least convinces others that he is convinced himself. When, however, the stenographer examines the notes of this fluent oratory, it is almost in vain to huntfor a phrase or sentence which will look well in print. The average hearer does not tire to any great extent of the redundancies, repetitions, interjections, and interrogations that abound; but, regarded as mere words, which have to be printed in grammatical sentences, the reporter's task in transcribing such incongruities is hopeless." Even a very eloquent and affecting prescher may be unreportable, and his words Brothren are cordially invited to attend. when written seem like 'sound and fury. signifying nothing.' Such an one is Canon Knox-Little, of Worcester, of whom the writer says :

'He allows his feelings to carry him where they will, and he carries the congregation with him. He will preach for about forty minutes and deliver one continuous stream of perfervid sentences. The effect of the words, however, depends so entirely upon the time and place, and upon the passion and delivery of the preacher, that when they are written out they seem cold and meaningless."

Grundy, of Deptford, London, that the best kind of preachers are those who have grown daughters; for daughters are relentless critics of parental mannerisms, and they have no illusions to the value of ecclesiastical reputations,

THE BOYCOTT AND PROTECTION.

It has always been a complaint the be satisfactorily settled, as no country has ever carried either policy to its obvious reasons. Those lands where the protectionist is regarded as a pernicious person have to raise revenue through the customs, and some measure of assistance must indirectly be given policy whenever advisable. The boycott would seem to be a strong saggestion to protectionists that they should follow the man from China. A boycott is surely ideal protection. There is no weak concession here in regard to raw material. What isi nvolved is an absolute cessation of trade and stoppage of shipping. In logical sequence the foreign product in the shape of humanity must remain without, and the protectionists' ideal would be achieved. One would expect to find America, the great protectionist leader, overwhelmed with joy to fin another convert making a mad rush Singularly enough into the fold. there has as yet been no sign of one offthose modestly worded gently uttered announcements with which the American eagle is wont make known its triumphs to the world. One would be almost led to the insano conclusion that America is not proud of her convert, that she is not pleased with the result of her procelytising This is a very sad state of things. Those persons who were beginning to free themselves from the 'shackels of mediaeval belief,' as their protectionist friends with rare self-deprecation styled opinions which were not theirs, are perplexed. They have been told time after time by superior persons of the $16,50 protectionist persuasion that the consumer does not pay the duty, and that the object of protection is to build up a great home market and keep outside. German Government upholds Germanism competition off the grass. But America by force and counteracts the natural tries to thrust her trade into protected and unprotected markets where she has, according to her own showing, to pay the duties, and the great home market after a century of building up, canno support the extra strain of having to assimilate what China rejects. America is incidentally freed from the terrible incubus of Chinese goods and still she is not happy. Perhaps we may expechthat America will show us thotfait that is in her and establish a boycott of her own on a colossal scale—a boycott against the world. This would clear her character from any suspicion rapidly being converted into Czechs. Poles, that her belief in protection is not whole-heartedly genuine. It would also saidentally prove the accuracy of he oft-repeated statement that the boycott is more likely to do harm to China than America perlmps. China may be reflects: There are others.

Local residents who contemplate visiting Paris might with advantage clip out the final paragraph in our Paris Letter and paste it in their notebooks for future reference.

Judge Eagleson, of Victoria, did his best to make two young people happy at a recent Melbourne Sessions. Having passed severe sentences, he came to the case of young woman convicted of receiving a five guinea fur jacket. Her lawyer pleaded for leniency on the ground that she was about to be married. His Honour gazed thoughtfully for a space, as if uncertain whether to give her an extra two years for thinking of getting married, then asked if the 'young man' was anywhere on the premises. He was. He stepped into the box and said that he was willing and anxious to marry the girls at once if the law would only refrain from locking her up in a cold blank apartment, and added that he loved her just as much as he did before she fell victim to the fascinations of a fur jacket. is Honor pondered things for an hour or go until September 1st, when, if she be not | gasaki Prefecture, has gone out, owing to already married, he will pass sentence. > There are some quite startling facts and deductions in Mr O. Eltzbacher's contribution to the Confemporary Review on the subject of the progress of Germany and of Greater Germany. This writer shows that during the last few decades the population of Germany has been increasing with but the foreigner made away as fast as be marvollous and upprecedented rapidity. From 1870 to the present time it has grown with the result that the foreigner was from 40,818,000 people to more than detained. It is reported that the native 69,000,000 people, and has therefore in- was severely injured in the back: creased by 50 per cent. During the same period the population of the United Kingdom has increased from 31,817,000 people to 43,000,000, or only 32 per cent. There are 60,000,000 Germans living in Germany, and there are 20,000 000 more living in other countries, such as Austria-Hungary, Switzerland, Russia, United States and Canada, South America, Australia, and various parts of Asia and Africa. Thus it would seem that as Germans are the most prolific people in the world, the dream of Pan-Germanism is well founded. But Mr Eltzbacher gives detailed figures which show that though the 60,060,000 Germans in Germany are increasing at a phenomenal rate. the 30,000,000 Germans outside Germany. while they are not less prolific than their kinsmen in Germany, are being everywhere submerged in the nationality of their domicile. It seems to be a law of Nature. and may be considered an axiom, that the Germans increase only in countries where none but Germans live. If Germans have to live side by side with men of another his launch in smuggling. Several times, nationality they are easily absorbed, soon lose their language unless a vigorous tendency of Germans to sink their nationality by forcibly Germanizing these who otherwise would denationalise the Garmans. We have seen the same tendency and the same Government counteraction in German possessions near Australia, where official proclamations have dained that the natives are not speak their customary pigeon English bu Serman. The suggestion to be drawn from Mr Eltzbacher's article is that Germany Taols 300,000. must bring all the Germans in Europe within the fold of one Empire, or else they will be lost altogether to her. The 30,000,000 Gormans outside Germany, who are increasing with truly German prolificness, are Italians, Hungarians, Frenchmen, Russians, Dutchmon, Belgians, Englishmen, Americans, Canadians, Boors, or British colonists: This enrious tendency of Germans outside Germany to be quickly part of Austria, and also Holland and Switzerland, And one Imagines that if those 30,000,000 outside Germans could be brought into the German Empire the flowing tide of Germanism might easily burst through all attempts to dam it back in Western Europe. A population of 90,000,000 Germans, increasing at the rate of 50 per cent. in 35 years, would threaten the very existence of France, if only for the reason that since the last and previous census the population of Germany increased by 15,000 people per million of inhabitants, while the increase in France was only 1700 yesterday, of the cancellation of Chau Tung Shang's appointment as Minister to-Belgium, is probably explained by the following, which is taken from a Canton When the Hoppo was handed over to the charge of the Viceroy, it was found that there was a shortage of a sum of close on $2,000,000 in the books. Chau Tung Shang was reported to have been the man in charge, and although he had handed the affairs over to Viceroy Shum, he was unable to leave for Peking on account of the shortage of the funds. In addition to this, there was certain difficulty on the part of Chau's brother, Tit Sai, who was in charge of the Treasury, and whose affairs in connection therewith, were not quite clear. It is expected that Chau Tung Shang's appointment as Chinese Minister to Belgium will be cancelled.

THE "BOURBON" CASE.

The Captain Fined $100.

Captain Sisco, of the French steamer " Bourbon," appeared at the Magistracy. this morning, in answer to the summone adjourned from yesterday, charging him with allowing rubbish to be thrown into the barbour, and with assaulting Lance Sergeant Wills whilst in the execution of his duty;

Lance-Sergeant Wills stated that on the 27th instant, at about 3 p.m., he saw a great deal of rubbish being thrown overboard from the steamer "Bourbon, including mats, matresses, stuffed with straw, and large quantities of straw and from the furnaces. The sea immediate vicinity presented the appearance of a general dumping ground for rubbish. The rubbish covered an area of about a square mile of water. Mr Orme-Are you certain of that ?-

Yes; there was an immense quantity of it Witness then went on heard of the "Bourbod," and going up to the captain said 'Good morning, captain,' and told thrown overboard from his ship. He then asked defendant if he would be good enough to go below and point out the men the harbour in order that he might summons them. The captain at once into a terrible rage (witness thought he had taken leave of his senses for the moment) and witness told him that he would have to prosecute him (the defendant) unless he pointed out the men that were throwing the rubbleh into the harbour. Witness then took the defendant to the ship's side to show him its existence. Defendant became angry again and said 'get off my ship impushed witness towards the side of the ship and knocked his cap off. ness then told defendant that he would report him for the assault, and he ing by the side gesticulating wildly,

The defendant had no questions to ask. and Inspector Langley, addressing His Worship, said-In the last case of this kind, Your Worship, you said would troble the fine if the dumping of rubbish was continued. The fine in that instance was $5% I would ask you in addition to any penalty you may impose, to make it clear to the defendant that the police have a right to go on board his ship. He seems to be under the impression that they have no right to do so.

In defence, A. Thomas, engineer, said that he saw the policeman come on board and sow the captain motion for him to return to his launch. Defendant did not push him. Two of the Chinese members of the crew made similar statements one, Lau Fat, stating that a very strong wind was blowing at the time and that it carried some of the rubbish overboard.

though the port holes?

The wind was blowing very hard. The defendant said that when the police that there was a sampan alongside taking the rubbish on board. There were over 500 coolies working on board and it was possible that some of it might have been thrown overboard.

Mr Orme-Perhaps you do not know that rubbish being thrown into the harbour? Defendant complained that the officer first went round the ship instead of coming to him at first. He was also impolite and day is horrible, and several passenge it was not the first time that he had failed in his manners. Inspector Langley-The last time was when the French Government sent 48 undesirables up from Saigon by the "Bourbon." The captain and his officers refused to give us any assistance in picking them out from amongst the passengers and, indeed, denied that they were on board. Defendant-The reason was that I did ·not recognise them as prisoners. The police were very impolite. Mr Urme-It is your duty to help the police and also to answer a summons when one is issued against you. If you don't you render yourself, liable to immediate arrest. Inspector Langley-I should like him to know that he must treat the police with a cortain amount of respect. Ho seems to have an idea that his ship has the same status as a man of-war. You will see, Your Worship, that it was impossible for the rubbish to have been blown overboard. There were large mats amongst it.

Mr Orme (to defendant)-If you are more accommodating to the police no doubt they will be more polite to you. do not think there will be any trouble you treat the police properly and do not hinder them in carrying out their duty. The Delendant-He should be more polite. How would you (His Worship) like a policeman to come up to you with his hat on? (Laughter.) Mr Orme-Although you have rendered yourself liable to a further penalty for disobeying the summons I will only impose n fine of $50 with regard to each of the charges in the summons. The defendant wanted to know what would be done regarding his complaint against the police officer, and after a good deal of argument left the Court to interview the Captain Superintendent of Police. He only wanted satisfaction.

[FOR THE CHLIA MARL.]

Lonpon, August 23. Britishers never make 'good sorvants. Perhaps it is their credit tha they do not, but at all events it is a fact. German stewards and waiters are undoubtedly much more accommodating. Perhaps in time of trouble or stress the native article would display more sterling qualities; and it is notorious that the obsequious German, when once he sequires a little brief authority is hectoring and bullying as the cavalier and 'cheeky' Englishman is calm and judicial. Our English stewards did their regular work punctually and well but they offered no extra attention; they were disposed to mutter and grumble reminded of any little shortcoming; and in said Good morning, captain, and told short were apt to answer back rather his good mornings with four score of curtly on the slightest provocation. Joan Gallay, was a nice, c'ean, respectable looking young man about thirty-two years old. Fair, light hair and moustache, always neat, always punctual in the morning, and not eager to leave at night. He gained the approval of his superiors at the Bank because he was so they considered, 'so quiet and respectable. He lived in a cheap flat in the cheap suburb of Neuilly, with his wife and two children. As far, as they knew a the Comptoir d'Escompte he lived just as a clerk on 15 dollars a week would live. His annual fortaight's holidays took place, but at the end of it Jean Galla did not return to the Bank offices, and, lo and behold | it turned out that the nice quiet rasp ctable clerk had been leading a double life, and had managed to rob the Comptoir d'Escompte of an immense sum of money. CORRESPONDENCE.

ILL-TREATMENT OF COOLIES

To the Editor of the 'CHINA MAIL.' Sir,-I remember some twelve months ago a great deal of correspondence, under the caption 'Brutal Policemen,' appearing in the columns of a local newspaper on the Hongkong Club. subj-ct of the alleged ill-treatment of several British sailors by some of our over zealous minions of the law. Much was then said against the Police, it being alleged that they had struck the prisoners and thus considerably exceeded their duty. One correspondent who took up the cudgels on behalf of the Police argued that as the sallors struggled violently when arrested the constables arresting them were compelled to use extreme measures in order to keep them under control. In connection with this argument it is interesting to note that Chinese prisoners are subjected to the same harsh treatment, although it is unusual for a Chinaman to become violent when arrested. It is not an uncommon sight in the streets of Hongkong to see a policeman striking a Chinese hawker or a coolie when there is no apparent reason for such a proceeding. Such a state Madame de Merrelli, but in the Hotel she of affairs is not and would not be tolerated elsowhere (not even in China) and the authorities should not suffer it here. The Police are not the only body subordinate officers of the Sanitary Board in from bis movements appeared him his baskets with their contents. The inspector deemed it unwise (or perhaps directed a street coolie who happened to be standing near at the time, to carry the part in the Cowes yacht race, flying the baskets to the Police Station. The coolie did not understand the inspector's order and enquired in Chinese what was required of him. Whereupon the inspector struck him on the back with his cane. The coolie enraged at his treatment then proceeded to walk away and was again struck. A The question, therefore, arises: What the 14th October, 1905, at 12.15 P.M. right had the inspector to strike the coolie? I was on the scene of the trouble at the time and the coolie to my knowledge did not refuse to carry the baskets. Even if the coolie did refuse, the inspector was not justified in striking him- the law provides rgainst that. Sanitary inspectors use their canes far too freely on coolies and others, and there is abundant necessity why they should be debarred from carrying cames of any description while on duty.

Why does not the Sanitary Board provide each of its inspectors with a distinguishing Mansen, the servant Marie Almier. (Signed) badge and a number so that strange inspectors may be identified in case of complaint? Many of the inspectors do not even wear uniforms at the present time. The matter should have the attention of the Sanitary Board .- Yours etc.,
